CONSCRIPTION BILL IS READY FOR PRESIDENT

Signature Making Measure Law, To Be Affixed This Afternoon.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 — President Roosevelt was expected to sign into law this afternoon the nation's first peace-time conscription bill.

Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said the Chief Executive probably would issue at the same time a proclamation and an executive order putting the draft into effect and "give out an ABC explanatory statement."

It was indicated that the proclamation would fix the date when 16,500,000 men, aged 21 through 35, would be required to register for military service.

Meanwhile, it was reported that all married men living with their wives could expect exemption from conscription during, at least, the first draft of 400,000 compulsory military service trainees.

Under selective service regulations which the President will put in force, officials said, such men will be presumed to have dependants, regardless of the financial situation of their wives.

The regulations will be subject to change at any time, however.

Divorced men paying alimony or supporting children also can be expected to be exempted, if investigation by local selective service boards shows that such wives and children actually are dependent upon the registrant.

Justice and war department authorities spent the week-end studying the provisions and language of the conscription bill from legal and military viewpoints to make sure everything was in order before Mr. Roosevelt affixed his signature.

Final congressional action on the conscription legislation Saturday after more than a month of debate enabled the war department to proceed on the final phases of its plans for putting 400,000 trainees in khaki by the end of the year.

Anticipating quick approval of Mr. Roosevelt's request to congress for an approriation to defray the costs of conscription, war department sources said they expected the date for registration would be Oct. 15, or thereabouts, with the first draft contingent of about 75,000 entering service about a month later. Subsequent quotas of 100,000 or 125,000 will be called up until the 400,000 mark is reached.

Historic in its significance, the nation's first peacetime conscription was enacted finally Saturday, after extended and often bitter debate in congress, as part of President Roosevelt's announced goal of "total defense."

The men drafted will receive initially 12 months of training. They will be liable for service anywhere in the western hemisphere, in United States possessions outside the hemisphere and in the Philippine islands. They will get the regular army pay, which the measure raised from $21 to $30 a month for privates.

In addition to the main manpower provisions, the draft law also gives the government new

MARION AREA LISTS 6 TRAFFIC ARRESTS

Six motorists were arrested in Marion and vicinity over the week-end, two on drunken driving charges and four on charges of speeding.

Charged with drunken driving are George Palmer, 48, of 401 Wood street, who was arrested by police Saturday night after a car he allegedly was driving sideswiped a street light pole in the Union Depot drive, and W. E. McElroy, 59, of Richwood who was arrested by Marion state patrolmen one mile west of Marion on route 95 early yesterday. The patrol reported the McElroy car was zig-zagging across the highway.

Both men pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Hazen this morning and were fined $100 and costs each. Their driving rights were suspended for six months.

Reed Fetter, 21, of near Marion was arrested by Marion state patrolmen early yesterday on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour on Route 98 seven miles southeast of Marion. Yesterday afternoon police arrested Henry Pohl, 24, of 136 Clover avenue, Paul Prosser, 39, of 131 Lincoln avenue and Fred Nelson, 45, of Bucyrus, all on charges of speeding 50 miles an hour on 35-mile-an-hour streets. Nelson was arrested on North Main street and Pohl and Prosser on East Center street.

All four men charged with speeding were released on bond to appear in municipal court later in the week.

Golf Tourney Winners

John Rife Wins County Title Second Straight Year; Neil Sharkey and Jim Woods Jr. Victors in Other Flights.

John Rife successfully defended his title as Marion county golf champion against Bob Owens in the 36-hole finals yesterday at Marion Country club. Rife, Mar-O-Del golf course greenskeeper, put the match in the bag on the thirty-sixth hole as he fired a par four to edge Owens, 2 up.

Neil Sharkey repeated as winner in the second flight by squeezing out a 2-1 victory over Warren Rowley Jr. and Jim Woods Jr. breezed to a 6-5 win over George Stafford in the 36-hole showdown of the third flight.

A gallery of approximately 150 persons watched Rife annex his second leg on the trophy presented to the winner by The Marion Star. This must be won three times before becoming the permanent possession of any one player. A plaque for permanent possession was also awarded Rife by the Y. M. C. A., sponsors of the tourney. Owens and the winners and runnersup in the other flights received golf merchandise.

It was Rife that set the pace from the first hole of the morning round to the end. He was down only once and twice had a three-hole advantage. It was a match between his accurate iron game and the long driving of Owens. The latter, usually a deadly putter, found the cup almost impossible to hit while Rife experienced both "hot and cold" periods of putting.

After being all even at the end of the first nine of the morning round with scores of 43, Rife equaled par figures coming in for a 37 to take a three-up lead as Owens was carding a 40. This gave Rife an 18-hole total of 80 and Owens an 83.

Owens, Country club champion, grabbed the first hole of the afternoon round with a birdie four to the champ's par five. They halved the second with bogey fives and Owens won the 188-yard, par-three third hole with a par. The fourth and fifth were halved with pars as was the sixth with bogeys. Rife copped the seventh with a par four to make his lead two up only to have Owens win the eighth with a par. The first nine of the afternoon was completed with Rife two-up as he won the 422-yard ninth with a par four. Rife's score was 41 and Owens' 40.

Spectacular Shot

The tenth hole was halved with regulation fives. Rife made a spectacular second shot from behind the trees in the left rough on the second hole to win the hole and stretch his lead to three up. He used a spoon for this shot and his ball stopped 40 feet from the pin. He was home in two putts. Owens also was in the rough at the left on this hole and his second shot was short of the green. He approached to within eight feet of the cup but failed to hole out.

They both posted par threes on the twelfth as Rife missed a birdie on a 10-foot putt when his ball rimmed the cup. The count remained the same as both players shot fives on the thirteenth. Owens cut his opponent's lead to two up as he won the fourteenth with a birdie four.

Rife sank an eight-foot putt on the short 150-yard fifteenth for a three and a tie with Owens. Owens sliced Rife's lead to 1 up as the latter three putted from 35 feet away after being on the 443 yard sixteenth in two shots.

Rife had an opportunity to end the match on the seventeenth as his second shot came to rest 20 feet from the pin and Owens was

GERMANS DARE BAD WEATHER IN LONDON RAID

Berlin Reports Direct Hits Scored on Plants in Area of Capital.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Sept. 16—Despite adverse weather conditions German warplanes continued retaliatory attacks upon London during the night, the high command reported today, scoring direct hits on a gasworks at Bromley and industrial plants at Woolwich in addition to other objectives.

Port facilities at Dover and Portland and an airplane works at Southampton, all on the English channel coast, were hit by German bombs, the communique said.

"Fierce air battles developed in the course of these raids," it acknowledged.

Raids also were reported on ship convoys off the Irish, Scottish and English east coast in which, the high command said, two merchantmen totaling 18,000 tons were sunk, one was set afire and several damaged.

Another 8,000-ton merchantman was reported sunk in the English channel by a plane attacking at night.

The commuique claimed 79 British planes were downed yesterday and acknowledged that 43 Nazi craft were missing. (The day's German losses were the greatest admitted thus far in the battle for Britain.)

Numerous new fires were reported set off by raids on Liverpool and Birmingham, the great west coast industrial cities which have been repeatedly attacked by the Nazi air force.

Resistance Stiffens

Authorized sources acknowledged that German bombers were meeting stiffening resistance to onslaughts on London, but they said the air force still was able to reach its objectives both by night and day. They promised the assault would be continued with undiminished vigor until Britain capitulates.

Since early morning, spokesmen said, Nazi warplanes have been carrying out "rolling attacks" upon England, coming and going across the channel in a steady procession.

The increased resistance in the London area was said to have been achieved by the British at the expense of defenses in other parts of the island, which the Germans asserted had been robbed of anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes to bolster the forces around the capital.

New fires set by Nazi bombs were reported raging in the great dock areas along the Thames and the Germans said they would be kept blazing by never-ending relays of warplanes until London's industries and supply centers are paralyzed.

German anti-aircraft defenses were given credit for beating off another British attempt to retaliate on the Berlin area late last night and early today.

Two Berlin Alarms

The Nazi capital had two air raid alarms, each of about 30 minutes, but authorities said that British planes which tried to approach the city were scattered by the outer defenses.

Berliners say that a British attempt at large scale reprisals for the continued bombing of London is certain to come and they took more or less as a matter of course the alarms which twice routed them from their beds.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 — Headed by President Roosevelt, official Washington paid its respects to Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral in the house chamber.

The 66-year-old speaker, an administration stalwart for the last seven years, died early yesterday after an internal hemorrhage. He was striken a week ago in Baltimore a short time before he was to address a political rally.

The house's choice to suceed Bankhead was Sam Rayburn of Texas, the present Democratic leader and a close friend of the dead speaker. The brief ceremony elevating Rayburn to speaker was to precede the funeral service.

At the conclusion of the services, a special train will leave the capital bearing Speaker Bankhead's body to his home in Jasper, Ala., for burial. President Roosevelt, a committee of 60 house members, and other representatives of officialdom will accompany the body to attend the final services. A three-day house recess will be taken.

Roosevelt Pays Tribute

Mr. Roosevelt, who received word of Bankhead's death while cruising on the Potomac, said that "every American loses a tried and proven friend of our system of government." The President's tribute was one of the many mourning Bankhead's passing.

Bankhead, who had served as speaker since 1936, was the third to die in that office during the Roosevelt administration. Henry

4 Killed As Train Hits Automobile at Van Wert Crossing

By The Associated Press

VAN WERT, O., Sept. 16—Four persons were killed today when a fast Pennsylvania train struck their automobile at the downtown Washington street crossing.

The dead were:

Rober Hueck Jr., 23, of Cincinnati, Nancy, 13, and Janet, 10, his sisters, and Mrs. Clementine Suttoff of Cincinnati, believed to be a nurse.

The wreckage of the automobile was wrapped so tightly about the front of the locomotive that trainmen had to chain the auto to the tracks and back up to disengage it.

A blowtorch was used to cut the bodies of Hueck, Nancy and Mrs. Suttoff from the wreckage.

Returning from Vacation

The four were returning on U. S. route 127 from a vacation trip to Michigan, where they had left Hueck's mother. Hueck was driving. The crossing was not protected at the time of the accident, about 4 a. m.

Italians Showing New Activity on Egyptian Border

By The Associated Press

Along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier the English faced a drive against the power of their empire. Italian troops under Marshal Rodolfo Graziani widened a spearhead thrust into the sandy wastes of northwestern Egypt.

The British, although harassing the Fascist drive with bombers, armored cars and heavy artillery fire, gave no indication of making a stand, discounting the Italian occupation of several villages as merely the occupation of desert wastes.

Egypt itself faced the prospect of invasion with fortitude, Egyptian sources reported from Cairo, and there was much speculation as to whether the action was really the beginning of a general drive or merely consolidation of the frontier to prevent further effective British raids.

British Hammer Nazis

For all their activity of defense, the British found time to continue their hammering at the German "front line" of invasion —the continental ports, and to swarm over Germany again.

Berlin had two half-hour air raid alarms just prior to and just after midnight. German authorities said the British were turned back before reaching the city.

Berlin sources denied that the British hit any harder at the continental coast than usual but the British said they wrought great havoc Saturday night and Sunday at Antwerp, Ostend, Calais and elsewhere, despite a storm in which several planes were hit by lightning and all were coated with ice.

From Vichy, France, came the nowa that former Socialist Premier Leon Blum had been locked up at chateau Chazeron, a feudal castle near Riom which also holds four other topflight leaders of pre-armistice France, all awaiting possible trial in the war-guilt cases.

Petain Blames Blum

Blum, whose government now is blamed by the present Petain administration for a large share in responsibility for the war, came to power in 1936. He pushed through numerous social reforms, including the 40-hour week.

The present government maintains this legislation resulted in a precipitate fall in industrial production, particularly in armaments.

BASES ACROSS CHANNEL SHELL BRITISH CITY

Bombardment Injures Eleven; German Planes Return to London Attack.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 16—The all clear signal sounded in London at 5:59 p. m. (11:59 a. m. Marion time) to end the city's fourth air raid alarm since dawn, one of the longest daytime alarms of the war—three hours 19 minutes.

* * *

LONDON, Sept. 16—Detonation of artillery shells, lifted across 22 miles of the English channel, shook Dover today and German bombers repeatedly stabbed at the London area as Britain tensely awaited the next strategy of Adolf Hitler, which may be an attempt to invade this fortified island.

Machine-gun fire high over London's streets and the rattle of shrapnel on roofs told of a big air battle during the fourth air raid alarm of the day.

Nothing happened in the first three alarms, but bombs were heard in the east during the fourth, sounded at 2:10 p. m. (8:10 a. m. Marion time) and anti-aircraft guns put up a heavy barrage.

Eleven persons were injured in the shelling of Dover.

The big German shells fell in Dover streets crowded with shoppers as correspondents in the "invasion corner" of Britain continued to report movement of many German troop carriers, of all shapes and sizes, close along the French and Belgian coasts under cover of night and mists.

It was understood that the German guns were replying to a bombardment of the French coast by British long range guns which fired about two dozen shells across the channel.

For the first time in weeks, heavy rainfall partly shrouded the activities at Hitler's bases across the channal.

Veteran seamen hoped a "stiff nor'easter" soon would pile up high waves on the French coast which would make impossible any immediate trual across the narrow waters.

Many Bombers on Way

Alarms of a total duration of an hour and 54 minutes were sounded in the London area.

(German sources said that heavy bombers had been taking off in a steady procession since early dawn, and that a "rolling" air barrage was being leveled at Britain.)

Alarms of 35, 40 and 41 minutes were sounded at 9:57 a. m. (3:57 a. m., Marion time), 10:55 a. m. (4:55 a. m. Marion time) and 12:00 p. m. 6:00 a. m. Marion time). The fourth started at 2:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. Marion time).

During the first alarm a large formation of bombers was encountered inland by British fighters, who turned it back.

There was antiaircraft activity in London during the third alarm, but the hundreds of batteries were silent throughout the second.

These thrusts followed a night and a half of night attack and a series of Sunday mass raids in which the British claimed their greatest air victory of any single day of the war — 185 German planes shot down on British soil.

Interspaced in the long night attack was a half-hour "silent" raid in which large numbers of time bombs or duds were dropped on London without exploding.

Many Buildings Hit

The government acknowledged that many buildings in London had been damaged during the dusk-to-dawn raid, exceeded only in duration by the nine-hour and 40-minute attack one week ago.

Authorities said 185 German planes [illegible] were down, the British [illegible] had lost only 49 of their own fighters, and declared that the pilots of 12 of these were safe.

The [illegible] previous day's [illegible] of [illegible] was [illegible] ordered [illegible] when the British said 180 were downed.

The raiders also struck at numerous other areas in northwest and southeast England and South Wales, but the government announced that the bombs fell in open areas and that damage was not extensive. One bomber was reported shot down during the night.

Reports from various parts of the London area indicated that time bombs were reported in showers and duds speculation that the Germans were adopting new tactics in an effort to disrupt the night [illegible]

Do You Know About Derma Surgery?

Until a few years ago deaths from accidents and disfiguring diseases were usually followed by a funeral with a closed casket. Friends were not permitted to see the deceased.

In recent years Derma Surgery—a new branch of the emblamer's art has been developed. By its use a natural and life-like appearance is restored, sometimes in almost unbelievable circumstances.

The men responsible for professional treatment at The Schaffner-Denzer Co. are trained in this type of work. Their skill has aided many families to have cherished memories, which otherwise might not have been possible.

PRESSURE FOR STEEL DELIVERIES GROWING

Question of Priorities Becoming More Urgent.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16 — The increasing volume of defense orders, plus substantial backlogs, is bringing nearer the question of priorities, the magazine "Steel" said today in its weekly review of the iron and steel markets.

Due to broadening demand and growing concern over deliveries, the magazine said, consumers are exerting more pressure on mills. Deliveries in general are still moderately good, but large commitments now on mill books, combined with business immediately in prospect may result soon in extending shipping dates," the review continued.

Steel work operations last week averaged 93 per cent of capacity, 11 points above the preceding week, which included Labor day. It was the peak so far this year.

Manufacturing and construction needs for defense have increased the pressure for bars, plates and shapes. Shipments of this type are expected to be among the heaviest of the year, due to the Sept. 30 deadline for deliveries of tunnages taken at price concessions.

Exports to England, except scrap, are unofficially estimated at 500,000 tons in August and 500,000 tons in July.

Steelworks operations last week advanced 18 points to 98 per cent in the Wheeling district; 6 to 39 in Cleveland; 5 to 93, Birmingham; 15 to 87, Pittsburgh; 13 to 97.5, Chicago; 11.5 to 90.5, eastern Pennsylvania; 11 to 86, Youngstown; 1 to 95, Detroit; 14 to 82, Cincinnati. Buffalo was unchanged at 90.5; St. Louis held at 89. New England rate dropped 10 points to 75 per cent, as more open hearths were taken off for repairs.

A motor truck has been constructed for the United States Indian Service for use in Florida that can travel over swamps and through water not more than 20 inches deep.

Army Weather Balloon Found Near Delaware

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 16—A radio meteorograph in a balloon sent aloft on May 27 at Brooklyn, N. Y., by the signal corps of the U. S. army has been found in a back field on the Fred Fulton farm west of Delaware.

The instruments and the balloon were found by Mr. Fulton and a neighbor boy, Erwin Chaney, who were operating a combine in the field. A letter inside the balloon explained the instrument and gave instructions that the finder return the meteorograph to the signal corps, upon receipt of which the finder would be sent three dollars for his services.

Attached to the balloon was a note stating that the radio meteorograph was sent aloft on May 27 at 1:38 p. m. for the purpose of obtaining weather information. The many instruments included small batteries, mechanism resembling the workings of a clock and a small light bulb.

THREE VESSELS RUSH TO STRICKEN SHIP

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Three vessels plunged through hurricane lashed seas today to the aid of the Swedish freighter Laponia, tossing helplessly with her steering gear disabled and water pouring into her below decks.

To the rescue-bound President Roosevelt, United States lines ship which swerved from her New York-Bermuda course to rush aid, the stricken 5,809-ton vessel wirelessed at 8:21 a. m.: "Can you stand by few hours? Working hard trying to get water in afterpeak and steering engine room, also crew's quarters, under control."

Trapped in the tropical storm which swept up from the Bahamas, the Laponia apparently was caught in the center of the disturbance, then some 300 miles east of Cape Hatteras.

Earlier, she wirelessed that a mast had been carried away, and that mountainous seas were breaking over her bridge.

The coast guard station here said the President Roosevelt had radioed that she sighted the Laponia about 9:15 a. m. and was preparing to stand by. The storm had moderated considerably and the greatest danger appeared past. In addition to the President Roosevelt, the coast guard cutters Sabago and Carrabasset from the Virginia Capes were expected to reach the scene about 2 or 3 p. m.

FRANK M. KNAPP

Frank M. Knapp, John F. Smith

hoped to rid Wisconsin of "La Follettеism." Phillip F. LaFollette, brother of Senator Robert M. La Follette (Prog-Wis.), was governor when Frank was ousted as president of the university.

Glenn Jr. was a reporter on the Madison State Journal and had taken leave from his job to accompany his father on his campaign trips. Young Frank was engaged to marry Miss Jane Manierre of Lake Hills, Wis. Mrs. Frank was at their home at Maple Bluff, Wis.

Remembrance Vague

"I was riding in the back seat," Stumpf said. "I think Glenn Jr., was driving. I don't know for sure. I don't remember anything else."

Roger Minahan, De Pere attorney, said that Frank was late for the political meeting at the Green Bay Hotel and phoned him about 7:45 p. m., from Clinton, Wis., 20 miles south of the scene of the accident.

Minahan said that Frank told him: "We've had a little trouble with the headlights. You folks go on and eat. It's all fixed now and we're coming ahead."

Coroner Orlen Miller said that the headlights were smashed and it was impossible to determine if headlight trouble caused the accident.

Frank had been evangelist, Chautauqua lecturer, writer, editor, and "boy president" of the University of Wisconsin (at the age of 38) before he became actively connected with Republican politics.

The son of a village school teacher, he was born in the northern Missouri hamlet of Queen City. At an early age he showed an aptitude for public speaking and would mount a stage and make a speech—for a coin.

Once Was Minister

He was 10 when he joined the ministry, which led him into the role of evangelist and Chautauqua speaker. He attended the State Normal school at Kirksville, Mo., and later was graduated from Northwestern university.

He topped his career as educator when he became president of the University of Wisconsin at Madison in 1925. Although still under 40, he had been assistant to the president of Northwestern university from 1912 to 1916; associated with the late Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant; editor of Century Magazine; member of post war peace committees and author. He later became a syndicate columnist as well.

The regents of the University of Wisconsin ousted him in January, 1937, after what friends asserted was a political intrigue to remove him. He then took over editorship of a farm publication with headquarters in Chicago.

Until his appointment to the Republican party post in Chicago in December, 1937, Frank had never taken a prominent place in Republican politics. He had once quipped: "I'm a Republican by ancestry and inertia."

Was Immaculate Dresser

Frank was known as a maker of rhetorical phrases, an immaculate dresser, and a speaker much in demand. More than once, during his regency at Wisconsin, he "floored" upstate legislators by appearing at committee hearings arrayed in the height of fashion, from spats to boutonniere.

Arguing for budget increases before hard-bitten legislators, he was a picture of unruffled efficiency, flanked by subordinates bearing charts and diagrams.

His administration at Wisconsin was replete with experiments, upheavals and political investigation, several of which were aimed at liberal professors on Frank's faculty accused of fostering radicalism.

His books include "The Politics of Industry," "American Looks at His World" and "America's Hour of Decision."

He and Mary Smith of St. Louis were married on June 2, 1917. Glenn was their only son.

The Republican program committee which Frank directed last Feb. 17 presented a 28,000-word report to the Republican national committee, outlining major principles and suggestions on practically every phase of domestic and foreign policy.

TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT POSTPONED

Action Involving Marion Co. Men Is Delayed.

Trial of A. W. Jones and his son Carl E. Jones, both of south of LaRue, has been postponed indefinitely in federal court at Toledo, The Associated Press reported today. The trial had been scheduled for today. The father and son were indicted last week and pleaded not guilty to a charge of making false representations to obtain a loan from the Marion Production Credit association, a federal institution.

Court officials at Toledo said the postponement was made so that the case can be investigated further.

Grant E. Mouser Jr., attorney for the defendants, said the defendants contend all the property which was set up as security for the loan belonged to them, with the possible exception of three horses. The defendants contend that the Production Credit association knew before making the loan the circumstances of the ownership of the property, Mr. Mouser said.

off to the left of the green. Owens chipped to within 10 feet of the hole and was in in two putts for a bogey five. Rife putted two feet from the cup and rimmed his next for a five also.

Deciding Hole

They came to the eighteenth with Rife 1 up and one hole to play. All Rife needed was a tie to win while Owens had to win to carry the match extra holes.

Owens drove first and his ball hooked to No. 3 fairway for about a 245 yard drive. Rife smacked a 230 yard tee shot into the left rough from where he used a spoon to hit his ball to within 35 feet of the pin. Owens was 20 yards over the green with a four iron and was 18 feet short of the hole coming back. Rife missed his putt by inches, giving him a par four. Owens missed his putt for a four, ending the match.

They both had 2-above-par 39's on this round, giving Owens a 79 total and Rife an 80.

Rife mowed Herb Petrich down, 3-2 in the semi-finals while Owens was eliminating Jack Jennings, 2 up.

Neil Sharkey and Warren Rowley Jr. battled 35 holes before the former came out on top, 2-1. Sharkey built up a six-hole lead in the first 11 holes only to have Rowley whittle it down to 2 up at the end of the morning 18. Sharkey had 43-44—87 and Rowley 47-42—89.

Sharkey Takes Lead

Rowley went out in front on the first nine in the afternoon as he won the second with a par and then snared three successive holes, fourth, fifth and sixth, with pars to Sharkey's bogeys. The latter jumped in the driver's seat at this point and swept the last three holes in par figures to take over a one-hole lead.

They broke even on the tenth and eleventh and Sharkey strengthened his advantage to 2 up with a par on the twelfth. The next hole was halved and Sharkey boosted his margin to three with a birdie on the fourteenth. Rowley rallied by taking the next two holes with pars, leaving Sharkey one up with two holes to go. Rowley drove 235 yards down the middle on the seventeenth and Sharkey cracked out one 20 yards farther. Rowley shot first and was several yards off of the green to the right while Sharkey dropped his niblik shot eight feet from the hole. Rowley approached to seven feet of the cup. Sharkey missed Rowley lost the match as he rimmed the cup on his attempt. Rowley was out in 42 and was three over par when the match ended. Sharkey had a 43 on the first nine and was one over standard numbers at the end of the eight holes of the second.

Sharkey defeated Judge H. S. Young, 5-3, in the semi-final round and Rowley edged Sherman Haldeman, 2 up.

Jim Woods Jr. Wins

After playing to a tie in the morning round Jim Woods Jr. smacked out a 41 on his first nine of the afternoon to gain a six-hole margin over George Stafford and then go on and win in the next three holes, 7-6. The morning round was a see-saw affair with both being out in front by several holes several times. Woods scored a 46-44—90 and Stafford 48-42—90.

Woods started out fast in the afternoon by winning the first hole with a birdie four, and the second with a par. Stafford took the third with a par 3 but Woods came back with a birdie on the fourth to make his edge 2 up. Woods widened his margin to 6 up at the end of the first nine as he won the last four holes with two pars and two bogeys.

They tied the tenth and eleventh and Woods won the match with a par on the twelfth. Woods was forced 19 holes in the semi-finals before defeating Robert Bush 1 up while Stafford was downing Roger Loveless, 4-3.

GUARD MOBILIZATION CALLS 60,000 TODAY

First Troops Answer Training Call Today.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—To the accompaniment of the inevitable "you're-in-the-army-now," some 60,000 citizen-soldiers trooped into their home armories today in the first federal mobilization of the national guard since World war days.

Their commanders were under orders from Washington to concentrate the guardsmen in previously-announced training centers "as soon as practicable." National guard bureau officials anticipated that all the men would be in camps within 10 days.

Before leaving their home armories, however, the 60,000 must undergo medical examinations, fill out required papers and pack clothing and equipment.

President Roosevelt ordered this initial contingent of guardsmen to be inducted under the regular army under the recently-enacted law empowering him to mobilize the full force of citizen-soldiers, totaling about 242,000 officers and men, for a year's training.

Additional guard units are to be ordered out later. Original army plans call for induction of all of them into the federal service by Jan. 1, but whether this is still the schedule has not been disclosed.

War department officials told congress while the mobilization law was under consideration that it was essential to call out the guard as a preliminary to the compulsory military training program.

Today's mobilization involves units in 26 states: New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Washington, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming, New Hampshire, Delaware, Illinois, Missouri, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Virginia and Arkansas.

Guardsmen below the rank of captain who have dependents were allowed 20 days from the date of the President's mobilization order, Sept. 1, to resign. Those under 18 will be discharged.

LONDON

During the daylight raids Sunday two heavy bombs and a number of incendiaries were dropped on Buckingham palace, already bombed twice previously.

King and Queen Absent

The king and queen were not at the palace when the projectiles came screaming from the skies. None of the missiles exploded, but one fell in the queen's apartment, causing considerable damage.

A British fighter pounced upon the German plane which loosed the bombs on the palace and literally shot it to pieces. The Nazi pilot fell dead on the roof of a nearby building, his parachute unopened.

The British plane also was damaged in the fight and the pilot bailed out, receiving a hero's welcome as he parachuted to safety in the same neighborhood.

While London's defenders were fighting furiously yesterday to ward off attacks on the capital, a "suicide squad" unearthed a 1,100 pound time-bomb which for days had menaced historic St. Paul's cathedral, trundled it out of town in a truck and detonated it harmlessly in the Hackney marshes.

While the Germans were hammering steadily at Britain, the royal air force struck back Saturday night and Sunday morning at Nazi bases in Germany, northern France, Holland and Belgium.

Docks, warehouses and oil tanks all along the German side of the channel were heavily bombed, the air ministry reported.

One RAF pilot told of setting fire to a 5,000-ton merchant ship at Antwerp, where he said he saw more than 300 barges moored in the harbor—possibly in preparation for the long-threatened invasion of England.

The British press association said that yesterday's aerial activity brought to 2,143 the number of German planes shot down over England since the war began.

METHODISTS REAFFIRM STAND AGAINST WAR

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 16—An outright declaration against any kind of war by the United States was reaffairmed unanimously today by the northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist church.

By resolution the conference opposed any defensive or aggressive war, guaranteed church protection for conscientious objectors and declared the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training legislation was a "flagrant denial of civil liberties."

A resolution condemning growth of anti-Semitism, said "it becomes our duty to guard our individual attitudes and actions against this virus."

Minority Parties Never Near Victory in Ohio, Record Shows

By H. H. DAUGHERTY
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, O.—Unless there is a terrific upheaval in Ohio politics this fall, the Republicans or Democrats will be the winners, and the candidates of minority parties will be among the "also rans."

Ohio's political history reveals nothing that would indicate any reversal of voting that would elevate one of the minority parties, Communist, Socialist or Socialist Labor, to major rank. History shows that Ohio is strictly a two-party state.

Of the three minority parties, the Socialist Labor is the oldest, yet the weakest in number of votes registered for major candidates.

The Socialist Labor party first appeared on an Ohio election ballot in 1895 when its candidate for governor received 1,867 votes. Since that time it has had candidates in 15 out of 24 elections and the highest vote ever cast for its major candidates was 4,246 for governor in 1897. Its 1932 presidential candidate received only 1,968 votes.

The Socialist party, which placed its first slate of candidates in the field in 1901, has been the best vote getter of any enduring minority party in the state's political history. However, it has been surpassed on occasions by the Progressive and the Union party which failed to survive.

The Socialist Debut

In its first effort in 1901, the Socialist party received 7,359 votes for its gubernatorial candidate and reached its peak in 1912 when Eugene V. Debs, its presidential candidate, tallied 90,144.

In 1926 its gubernatorial candidate fell to 5,985, but in 1932 Norman Thomas, presidential candidate, came back with 64,094. Thomas is the party's presidential candidate again this year. It has had no ticket in the field since 1932.

The Communist party made its Ohio debut in 1928 as the "Workers Communist" party with William Z. Foster as its presidential candidate and garnered 2,836 votes out of 2,508,346 cast for president, or a little better than one one-thousandth per cent. Four years ago its present candidate, Earl Browder, received 5,251. The party had no slate of candidates in the gubernatorial election of 1938.

Probability of the Communists qualifying a slate for this year's ticket appears doubtful as thousands of its petition signers have said they signed under misapprehension and have asked to have their names removed. Their petitions now are being checked by county election boards. Similar checks on the Socialist Labor and Socialist petitions may result in reductions below the necessary total, too.

Dates Away Back

The Prohibition party made its appearance on the Ohio ballot in 1869. It still claims an organization but has failed to qualify a slate since 1932 when its presidential candidate, Aaron S. Watkins, polled 19,575. In 1869 its candidate received 679 votes and the best showing came in the gubernatorial election of 1885 when its candidate received 28,081.

Since the turn of the century other minority parties have appeared for one or more elections, including the People's, Independence, Progressive, Independent Progressive, Single Tax, Commonwealth Land and Union.

The Progressive, born in 1912 as former President Theodore Roosevelt headed the split in the Republican party, polled 229,807 votes for him. It died in 1914 after its gubernatorial candidate received only 55,808.

The Independent Progressive party, founded in 1924 by Independent Republicans and Democrats and headed by U. S. Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, a Republican, and U. S. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a Democrat, lasted but one year, though it polled 357,948 votes. Cleveland and the western reserve went strong for the ticket.

The life of the Union party was equally as short as the Independent Progressive. It was formed four years ago by a coalition of various groups. Headed by Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota as its presidential candidate, it polled 132,212.

The Commonwealth Land party polled its highest vote in the gubernatorial election of 1924 when its candidate received 11,776. It disappeared after the 1924 election.

Goering Flies Own Plane To Inspect London Damage

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Sept. 16—Reichmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering last night flew over London at the controls of a Junkers plane, authorized German sources declared today.

Goering's plane, a JU-88, was accompanied by only two destroyer planes, the informants said.

Returning to his air force headquarters in an unnamed village in Normandy, northwestern France, Goering was quoted as saying:

"I am glad I made my air force such a strong weapon.

"It was the decisive force in Poland and Norway and undoubtedly it will play a similarly decisive role in the war with England."

Goering's Normandy headquarters were said to be so well camouflaged that detection from the air was impossible.

Goering, credited with making the German air force the world's most formidable, was a fighting pilot in the World war and during the closing months of that conflict commanded the Richtofen circus, most famous of all German flying units.

T. Rainey of Illinois died in 1934, and Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee in 1936. Bankhead has been a member of the house since 1917.

Rayburn was elected to the house in 1913 when only 31. A lawyer and stock farmer in private life, he is a close friend of Vice President Garner and managed Garner's campaign for the presidential nomination in 1932 when a switch of Garner delegates helped win the nomination for Mr. Roosevelt.

Bankhead was the first Alabaman to become speaker of the house and his unanimous election to that high office made congressional history.

A member of a family which was represented for more than half a century under the capitol dome, politics was his birthright, but years of climbing the house seniority ladder intervened before "Will" Bankhead became, in quick succession, chairman of the powerful rules committee, majority leader and speaker.

Elected first to the 65th or "war congress," he realized a long-cherished ambition to wield the speaker's gavel upon the death of Speaker Byrns of Tennessee near the close of the 1936 session. Byrns' passing, virtually upon adjournment eve, created a situation for which there was no precedent. It was the first time a speaker had died while congress was in session. Party leaders, anxious to avert anything in the nature of a contest under these circumstances, quickly decided upon Bankhead for the post and less than 12 hours after the death of his predecessor, the courtly Alabaman was elected without opposition as the 45th speaker of the house. He was re-elected Jan. 6, 1937.

Father Was Army Captain

Born on a small plantation at Moscow, Ala., on April 12, 1874, Bankhead was the son of a Confederate army captain who blazed a trail to congress which later was followed by two of his sons. When "Will" was elected to congress from the newly-created seventh district of Alabama, his father, Senator John Hollis Bankhead, already had carved a distinguished career in the national legislature. About 10 years after the father's death, another son, John H. Bankhead, second, won a senate seat.

Adherence to his father's advice to "stay on the floor of the house and learn the rules," made "Will" Bankhead one of the ablest parliamentarians in congress. It was to this knowledge he attributed his rise to the speakership but he was aided materially by his ability as an orator and his wide popularity among the members.

A product of the hill country of his native state, he was educated in log schoolhouses, the University of Alabama and Georgetown University's law school. Soon after receiving his law degree, he almost forsook his profession for a theatrical career in New York. Family opposition induced him to give up the idea but he lived to see his ambitions in that direction attained by his daughter, Tallulah, star of stage and screen.

Bankhead's oratorical reputation was established even before he was sent to congress, for in 1912 he was the "boy orator" chosen to present Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. This was at the Baltimore convention, scene of an historic struggle before Woodrow Wilson was nominated.

Lunch Box Sandwich

Lunch box time is here again. Put equal parts of cooked veal and raw carrot through food chopper. Add a little chopped celery, salt, pepper and enough cooked salad dressing to make mixture spread easily between thinly-sliced buttered bread. Lamb also is good in this sandwich. Add some watercress if lamb is used.

Casserole combination: Ground or diced cooked ham, diced celery and cooked noodles covered with a thin white sauce containing one tablespoon of melted peanut butter.

* * *

Peach Cream Pie

Three-fourths cup sugar, one-third cup flour, dash salt, two eggs, two cups scalded milk, one teaspoon vanilla, or one-half teaspoon almond extract.

One baked pastry shell, one cup whipped cream, one cup cut peaches, fresh or canned.

Mix dry ingredients in top of double boiler. Beat the eggs slightly and add to dry ingredients. Pour the scalded milk on gradually, and cook 15 minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly until thick and frequently after mixture thickens. Remove from fire flavor and pour into pastry shell.

Cool and spread on the whipped cream, into which the peaches have been folded.

Note: Remember that peaches change in color as soon as they are exposed to the air after they have been pared.

* * *

Corn Soup

Two cups corn, one pint boiling water, one pint milk, one sliced onion, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, dash of paprika, two tablespoons butter.

Fry the onion in the butter and stir in the flour. If raw corn is used, place it in boiling water and boil 5 to 7 minutes. Add the milk to the corn and bring to the scalding point. Thicken with the onion, flour and butter mixture and add seasonings.

* * *

Cream Tomato Soup

Put six ripe tomatoes, or one can of tomatoes, in a saucepan with one medium-sized onion and one small stalk of celery. When cooked very soft, rub through a sieve and season with salt and pepper.

Heat in a double boiler one pint of milk, thickened with two teaspoons of flour rubbed smooth in a very little cold milk. Cook ten minutes and add two heaping teaspoons of butter. Add one-half teaspoon of soda to the tomatoes. (Canned tomatoes need a little more soda than fresh.) Stir well and add the boiling milk.

Do not cook after milk is added, as this is responsible for curdling. Serve immediately. Cheese-topped crackers, toasted under the broiler for a minute or two, are a savory addition to tomato soup.

* * *

Five pounds hard pears, five pounds sugar, one-third cup preserved ginger (cut in small pieces), three cups water, three lemons, juice and grated rind.)

Remove skin and cores from the pears and cut the fruit in slices lengthwise. Add the water and cook the pears until they are tender. Add the sugar and other ingredients and simmer the mixtures until it is thick. Pour into sterilized hot jars and seal.

Note: Hard varieties of apples may be preserved in the same way.

* * *

Tomato Preserves

Five pounds ripe tomatoes, four pounds sugar, two lemons and salt.

Scald the tomatoes and slip off the skins. Place the tomatoes in a crock, or enamel bowl and add sugar. Let them stand overnight. Drain off the juice and boil it rapidly until it threads. Add tomatoes, sliced thin, and cook the preserves until they are thick and clear. They should be a rich, red color. Seal in hot jars.

Some Meals Not Damaged by Waiting

From the can that furnishes the grapefruit sections came the juice that gave tart favor to the jellied mold of this tempting salad. For luncheon or dinner, this grapefruit-tomato aspic-salad is made quickly.

Don't get jittery if members of your family frequently are late for dinner. The meal need not be ruined.

Plan dinners that do not mind waiting.

Then you can take care of such emergencies as the after-school practice or the football game that detains the children.

Have soups, stews, vegetables, gravies and sauces that can be reheated over low heat or in a double boiler.

Rolls keep warm for some time if tucked under a cloth or in a bun warmer near heat.

A 30-minute wait means nothing to escalloped dishes, meat or fish loaves, of vegetable pot pie when kept in a pan of warm water over low heat.

Quick breads are usually best served as soon as baked. Make them up ready for the oven and store in the refrigerator until the slamming front door announces the arrival of the family.

* * *

When you think the dinner may be held up, make up Creole Green Peppers. Cut 6 large peppers lengthwise in halves and discard the seeds and pulp. Staff with 2 cup boiled rice mixed with ½ cup bread crumbs, a cup of leftover meat, fish, or fowl; 2 tablespoons melted butter and a tablespoon of catsup. Season lightly with chopped onions, parsley, salt and paprika. Bake 35 minutes in a moderate oven. Bake a fruit cobbler or fruit dessert along with the peppers and serve warm or cold.

For a vegetable treat, bake Sweet Potatoes with Oranges. For 2 cups of sliced cooked potatoes add a sliced orange, ¼ teaspoon grated orange rind, 3 tablespoons dark brown sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter, a little salt and pepper and 2 tablespoons boiling water. Arrange slices in layers in a buttered baking dish and add the rest of the ingredients. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven.

Jambolaya is a home-spun main dish that can wait indefinitely. Brown ¼ cup chopped bacon. Add 2 tablespoons each of chopped onions, celery and green peppers. Add 1 cup chopped cooked ham, 1 cup tomato juice and 2-3 cup water. Simmer 10 minutes and add 1 cup cooked shrimps and salt and paprika. Pour over macaroni, rice or spaghetti.

* * *

Salmon Loaf Bettina can be kept in a pan of hot water on stove or it can be reheated in a moderate oven. Mix a pound can of salmon with 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 egg or 2 yolks, 1 tablespoon chopped celery, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each of pepper, celery seed and chopped parsley. Pour in ½ cup milk and 3 tablespoons melted butter. Bake 35 minutes in a greased loaf pan in moderate oven.

Feller Pitches Indians Back Into Lead; Tigers and Yanks Take Beatings

Robert Yields Two Hits, No Walks, As Tribe Takes Double-Header.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

As quick as you can say Robert William Andrew Feller the Cleveland Indians have ascended again to the American league's throne room.

After trailing in second place since Tuesday the Indians yesterday vaulted back on top, a full game in front of the Detroit Tigers.

Feller led the way to a double decker decision over the Philadelphia Athletics. He gave up only two hits, struck out seven and for the second time in his major league career allowed no walks, in scoring a 5-0 shutout.

It was Feller's 25th win against nine losses. The Indians had some trouble in the nightcap when the A's got rough with Al Smith but George Caster, after pitching no-hit ball for four frames, blew wide open and the Tribe triumphed 8-5 with four runs in the fifth and three more off Chubby Dean in the seventh.

At the same time the man-eating Tigers were tamed 6-1 by Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators, who gave up only six hits and one run—a homer by Rudy York.

The onrushing Chicago White Sox won two and the slowing-up New York Yankees lost two, leaving this lineup:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	T.P.
Cleveland	81	59	.579		11
Detroit	80	60	.571	1	14
N. York	77	62	.554	3½	16
Chicago	78	64	.549	4	12
Boston	74	67	.532	7½	13

G. B. means games behind leader. T. P. means games to play.)

The Yankees were the victims of this year's greatest giant killers, the St. Louis Browns, 10-5 and 2-1. This ran New York's slump to five defeats in six games and put the champs in jeopardy of being passed by the speeding Chicago White Sox, who ran their winning streak to eight games and just about eliminated the Boston Red Sox with twin triumphs, 5-1 and 4-2.

Ted Lyons Has His Day

Sunday was "Ted Lyons' Day" for 39,000 Chicago fans and the veteran righthander clamped down on the Red Sockers with three-hit pitching. John Rigney allowed only five in the nightcap, which Joe Kuhel won for him with a two-run homer in the tenth.

Manager Oscar Vitt summoned Mel Harder and Harry Eisenstat today to duplicate yesterday's feat in another bargain bill with the A's. Johnny Babich and Buck Ross were the Philadelphia selections.

Feller's exhibition of control in the first game yesterday had the fans calling it the greatest pitching stint of his career.

Not a single Mackman got a base on balls as Feller turned in his 25th victory, and for seven and one-third innings he held the A's hitless, facing only 28 batters.

"My control was just about perfect," the fireballer admitted in the showers. "It was only the second game I ever have pitched without giving a base on balls."

Almost No Hitter

It looked as if Feller would ring up the second no-hitter of his career after retiring the first 22 batters in order. Then Dick Siebert, who deprived the Cleveland ace of a no-hitter in the eighth inning of a game at Philadelphia July 12, hit a pitch on the handle, just out of the reach of second baseman Ray Mack.

The Athletics's other hit came in the ninth—a single by Frankie Hayes.

In the National league the Cincinnati Reds stretched their first place margin to nine games by conquering the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-3. The second game of a doubleheader ended in a 1-1 tie when darkness halted play after 11 innings and will be tried over today.

Catcher Ernie Lombardi of the Reds sprained an ankle in the first game.

Giants Trounced

The Pittsburgh Pirates knocked the New York Giants into sixth place with a double victory 10-3 and 4-3.

The St. Louis Cardinals held third place, however, defeating the Phillies 7-0 and 3-1.

The Boston Bees and Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader, Manny Salvo winning the first 7-3 with seven-hit pitching and Dizzy Dean coming back with a careful nine-hit job to take the second game 7-4.

REDS SEEK TO COOK DODGER GOOSE TODAY

Call on Thompson To Pound Brooklyn Down.

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, Sept. 16 — The high-flying Cincinnati Reds called Gene Thompson to the mound today as they hoped in playing off a tie game to pounds the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league into submission.

For the Dodgers it was a last stand against the conquering Rhinelanders. With the National league pennant just around the corner, the Reds felt they had little more at stake than the glory of conquest.

Thompson, who has an old score or two to settle with the Flatbushers, was gunning for his 16th victory against the flinging of an old teammate, Lee Grissom, or Curt Davis.

All the Reds have to do to mathematically clinch the flag is to win six of their remaining 16 games, even though the determined Dodgers take all of their remaining 13 contests.

The Cincinnatians, who have won 19 of their last 22 starts, teed off against the Dodgers yesterday for a 13-3 victory in the first game of a double header to give Bucky Walters his 20th hurling triumph but the afterpiece ended in a 1-1 tie. By pushing over a run in the ninth inning of the nightcap the Dodgers robbed Paul Derringer of a shutout and his 20th win of the season.

EAGLES BEAT WILLARD IN BENEFIT GAME

Four-Run Rally in Sixth Inning Brings Victory.

A four-run uprising in the sixth inning gave the Marion Eagles a 8-6 decision over the Willard baseball team yesterday in a benefit game in Lincoln park. Proceeds were added to the fund for erection of a new fence at Lincoln park.

The highly-touted visitors in the first inning scored three runs on two hits, three errors and a walk. The Eagles tallied twice in the third, once in the fifth and the four deciding runs crossed the plate in the sixth. The invaders scored only two earned runs as they suffered their first setback in the last 13 starts.

The locals jumped on Buss, star twirler for Willard, for 12 safeties in the first six innings when he was relieved by Fogle, who gave up three blows in the two remaining innings. Harold Fetter, No. 1 server for the Eagles, allowed seven hits while fanning five. Third baseman John Marshall was the leading hitter of the day as he slapped out two doubles and a triple in four trips to the plate.

Sunday the Eagles will entertain Sycamore at Lincoln park in the deciding game of a three-game series to be played as a benefit for the fence. Both games played earlier this season were won by a one-run margin, the Eagles taking the first, 2-1, and Sycamore the second, 3-2.

Willard .... 300 002 001—6 7 1
Marion .... 002 014 10*—8 15 4

Buss, Fogle and Boyle; H. Fetter and J. Darnell.

They can't do that to us!...Dizzy Dean's many friends will want to tune in tomorrow night when he gives the inside dope on his comeback on the "We The People" program.

Believe-It-Or-Not

Some weeks back we told of a baseball team which staged an uproarious 18-run inning in which one player came to bat three times and got three hits and another went up three times and drew three walks... We never thought we'd read of anything to beat the likes of that but here it is...Texas league records show that in August, 1929, Waco defeated Beaumont, 20-7...Waco scored 18-runs in the eighth inning...Gene Rye Waco's centerfielder, was up three times in the eighth...He slammed out three homers—one to right, one to center and one to left...We know this is hard to swallow, but it's in the book.

FINDLAY BEATS LIMA

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Sept. 16—Findlay's Oilers, who finished the Ohio State league season second to Lima, served notice on the champion Pandas last night that they couldn't win the playoff on reputation alone. The Oilers pounded two Panda pitchers for an even dozen hits and a 6 to 4 victory in the opener of the playoff finals.

O.S.U. GRIDDERS SHOW FLAWS IN WORKOUTS

Schmidt Faces Task Before Opener with Pitt.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16 — Wash day in Ohio State university stadium found Coach Francis Schmidt ironing out rough spots uncovered during the Buckeye football squad's Saturday scrimmage.

The first string "Red" team trounced the "Whites" 36 to 0 in the practice game but although Schmidt noted "considerable improvement" over earlier scrimmage showings, he admitted there was plenty of work yet to be done before the Sept. 28 opener here with Pittsburgh.

Elsewhere on the Ohio football front there will be more serious action this week. Youngstown, which opened the Ohio collegiate season with a 7-0 victory over Geneva last week, takes on Waynesburg Thursday. On Friday Xavier entertains Georgetown in Cincinnati and Mount Union invades Albion, Mich.

Detroit Tech moves into Akron for Saturday's outstanding game and Baldwin Walace journeys to the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Other Saturday games: Findlay at Adrian, Mich., Rio Grande at Otterbein, Bluffton at Kent State and Ball State at Miami, in addition to Hanover at Cincinnati U.

"No Suspicion of Sabotage"

OFFICIAL comment of "no suspicion of sabotage" in the powder plant explosion at Kenvil, N. J., doesn't ring true. Suspicion of sabotage in such a case is automatic.

Sabotage is a standard policy of at least two belligerent powers, Germany and Russia. The former has boasted openly of mastery over the technique of destroying other countries from within.

Russia used sabotage consistently, on the theory that each outbreak of confusion in a capitalist state weakens its structure and opens the way for Communist infiltration.

These facts are common knowledge. While few Americans would suggest that everything which goes wrong is due to sabotage, it is their firm belief an explosion in a powder plant, like a fish in the morning milk, is strong circumstantial evidence of monkey business.

If the purpose of "not suspecting" anything should be to throw suspects off their guard, furthermore, most Americans would be inclined to say everything possible should be done to put potential saboteurs on their guard. The consequences of messing around in the United States should be just a little tougher than the widely advertised consequences of messing around in the dictatorships which, having made a science of it, naturally are alert to its possibilities.

Davey or Bigelow?

ACCORDING to the text of a proposed law which Herbert S. Bigelow will try to initiate in Ohio, "whoever is legally eligible to receive aid for the aged shall be paid $40 a month, minus only what net income a recipient may have from other sources." This is Mr. Bigelow's latest bid for the political spotlight.

The Davey platform of the Ohio Democratic organization reads: "We propose that old age pensions, for each person entitled to receive it, shall be $40 per month, less any income from other sources."

Is it possible that the big pension man from Cincinnati and the big tree man from Kent are putting their heads together?

By Request

IF campaigns were run like request programs and voters could select orators' subjects, things would be different.

Mr. Roosevelt, instead of making slick speeches about the minorities he has buttered, would have to get down to the brass tacks of government in his time and talk about debt. Mr. Willkie, on the other hand, would have to tell what he intends to do about debt. Drab truth would take the place of glittering generalities.

The national debt is just now sailing into its 45th billion. There is nothing in sight to keep it from sailing ad infinitum. Even before government had the bright idea of applying New Deal billionitis to the international situation, there was nothing in sight to prevent a fiscal balloon ascension. It is not debt which is fatal to government in the long run but failure to stop the piling up of more debt.

Beside sound financing everything else government does or tries to do is secondary. It cannot spend money it does not have. Its services, its obligations, its benefits can be performed and bestowed only so long as its treasury remains intact. The instant anything happens to the treasury, everything collapses.

The people have a right to demand that Mr. Roosevelt, particularly, must talk about money. He led the way on the spending spree. It's a headache, which is why he has avoided it the last few years. Nevertheless, his countrymen must be told what he intends to do about it if reelected. They want to know, also, what Mr. Willkie would do. They're all ears.

France's Merciful Silence

NOTHING is heard from France any more, other than occasional reports of an enslaved people aping the mannerisms of their masters. French youth, for instance, have learned to live in camps, wear the same kind of shirts and salute the proper personages, one of the triumphs of the authoritarian credo. To all outward intent, one of the great nations of the earth has been swallowed up completely.

Probably it is better that the French people should be allowed to hide behind a curtain of silence for the present. One wonders what goes through their minds as they hear how France's defeat helped to make possible the systematic destruction of Britain, a thing the Germans thought they'd have to do the same hard way as they did in the World war.

One wonders what Frenchmen would say if they knew how their conquerors were cultivating the impression abroad that they not only are fools but traitors to their own interests; how the story has been spread that France's resources and men are being used to crush Britain, its ally; how the belief has been fostered that France now thinks Germany is upholding a just cause against the forces of evil. Perhaps it is better for everybody concerned not to know what Frenchmen are thinking and saying right now.

News Behind the News

Willkie's Lone Stand Against Factory Confiscation Proposal Bears Fruit.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—While some of his friends and all of his enemies thought Willkie's opposition to the first industrial confiscation proposal was a political mistake, it is now just as universally apparent he made the most beneficial error of the campaign so far. Here is what happened after is lone-voiced protest:

When he spoke out, the senate was adopting the Overton-Russell provision allowing the government to take ownership of any plant or "facility" if the owner did not accept a government contract. The word "facility" was so broad it seemed to cover everything including the implements of free speech — press and radio. The unfortunate language furthermore would have given the government permanent ownership of seized plants.

Paul Mallon

Business might not have been hurt as much as has been popularly supposed. In fact business was not interested. None of the legislative representatives of business here backed Willkie up. An owner of seized property would get full value under the law.

The real defects lay in other directions. First there was a prospect the government would have to assume permanent ownership of plants it did not know how to operate and didn't really want. A whole new vista of possible state socialism was opened up merely to get at the problem of handling unpatriotic recalcitrants.

Other Faults

The language was so loose and faulty further, as to lay open a way for a political-minded authority to punish his enemies and reward his friends. Possibility of the government taking over losing plants of friends at a cost to the taxpayers was not eliminated. The door to graft was not sealed.

It was soon realized in the house that the senate had done a bad job of legislating. It had gone in over its head. Rep. Smith, Connecticut, hit upon the much better plan provided in the 1916 law: Plants could be commandeered for five years. This eliminated the permanent state socialization vista. Then the conference of both houses further modified the change and required that the secretaries of navy and war must certify before a plant is taken over that the circumstances require the exercise of that power. This put a damper on the prospects of political abuse by widening the responsibility for them.

The final result was what seems to be a fairly good plan to handle the termites without taking up the floor of the business structure. It is satisfactory all around, both to New Dealers and Republicans — largely because Willkie spoke over the heads of his party linemen.

Amendment Eliminated

The ex-lawyer in the White House himself was responsible for eliminating the Republican amendment which would have required a state of "immediate public necessity" before the confiscation processes could be operative. The amendment was pushed into the bill by Republican Senator Austin of Vermont. It sounded all right to the congressmen who let it slip by, but Mr. Roosevelt apparently thought it would require him to declare a state of national emergency and he did not want to be so hampered.

Word was so passed to Democratic conferees, and Senator Minton forced the amendment out of the bill. Now Roosevelt can confiscate "in furtherance of the objects" of the draft bill. He is given broader powers than anyone previously thought he had.

Age Limits

The 21-35 age limit in the draft was not fixed by arithmetical processes or casually. The house wanted 21 to 45. The senate agreed to go as far as 40, and this would have been the agreeable limit except for the war department. The generals told the house and senate conferees that the only reason for a 45 limit was to get in the AEF veterans so they could help train new recruits. The 40 limit would not catch veterans, so there was really no good reason for not taking a 35 top. The 21-35 spread represented the age limits for volunteers in the army.

Blast

Hercules powder explosion ruined one of the only three powder producing plants working in the United States. The rate of production in this most essential defense material has not been satisfactory to the war department. Stocks on hand now would only permit the guns of this nation to fire four and one half hours a month at the rate at which powder has been used by leading European nations since the start of the war.

THE LOST "PETROL"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Sept. 16, 1930.

Milton Sills, motion picture actor died in Los Angeles at the age of 48.

Funeral services were set for Thursday for Mrs. James F. Prendergast, whose death at the age of 63 had occurred Monday at her home on East Church street.

Lowell Goerlich of Kenmore avenue went to Tiffin to begin his studies as a freshman at Heidelberg university.

Rev. James M. Fisher, director of the Lee Street Presbyterian church, was elected moderator of the Marion Presbytery at the annual meeting at Richwood.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Sept. 16, 1920.

A bomb explosion on Wall street badly damaged the bank building of J. P. Morgan Co., killed 38 persons and injured 200. The mystery of the explosion was never solved.

Mayor T. E Andrews set a new high mark for collections in his office when he reported $1,260 received during August in fines and licenses, all of which was turned over to the city treasury.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle and successor to Henry Ward Beecher, was a visitor at the Harding home and made a statement in which he said that "above his ambition to be president Senator Warren G. Harding has placed the purpose in his speeches of building American manhood and the strengthening of American institutions." He said that during the last few weeks he had been in nearly all of the states north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi river and found a predominant sentiment in favor of the election of Mr. Harding as president... On Friday there were to be celebrations throughout the country marking the anniversary of the adoption of the federal Constitution. In Marion a Constitution day meeting was to be held at the Harding front porch and delegations were expected from Ashland, Champaign, Cuyahoga, Defiance, Knox, Logan, Ottawa, Putnam, Tuscarawas and several other counties. Senator Harding's speech was to be a presentation of the Republican party's policy toward restoration of constitutional government.

Safety in Spring

CHICAGO — Perhaps it's because a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. Or perhaps there's a better reason.

In any event, the fact remains that thre are fewer accidental deaths in spring than in any other season of the year, according to the 1940 edition of Accident Facts, the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook.

Compared with the daily average of 255 deaths for 1939, the spring toll was only 230 deaths a day, 10 per cent less than the average.

During the summer months there were 267 deaths a day—5 per cent more than the average. In the fall there was a slight increase to 269 deaths, and the winter figure was the same as in the summer, 267 each day.

ROBERT L. DOUGHTON

By ROBERT L. DOUGHTON
Chairman, Committee On Ways And Means, House of Representatives

WASHINGTON, — Since 1933 our public debt has increased from $22,000,000,000 to $43,000,000,000. The $21,000,000,000 increase represents an annual average deficit of about $3,000,000,000 for each of those seven years.

During the early part of this period the unparalleled depression with which we found ourselves afflicted had so reduced the incomes and transactions upon which our federal taxes operate that no reasonable tax structure could produce the revenue necessary to meet the needs of our government if it was to carry out its obligations to its citizens.

The government would have been criminally derelict in its essential function had it not made its mighty resources available to save its citizens from want and despair, and to make every effort toward establishing their security and well-being. The dollars spent in promoting both our human values and our natural resources will yield dividends in the future strength and prosperity of our citizenship.

IN RECENT years the development of our national defenses has made a further and equally urgent demand upon our finances. We all perceive with increasing clarity the necessity for the speedy construction of defense facilities for which expenditures are being made that in normal times would be considered staggering. Cost what they will, we must have them, and I am convinced that the burden will be borne willingly and even gladly when we realize what enormous stakes we stand to lose if attack finds us unprepared to repel our aggressor.

The Congress has made available in appropriations and contract authorizations for national defense expenditures almost $15,000,000,000, more than one-third of which will be spent before the end of this fiscal year. As the situation becomes more acute, this amount may be greatly increased.

The money necessary to carry out the enormous defense program will eventually have to be paid in taxes. I firmly believe that, to as great an extent as possible, we should pay our national defense bills as we go. In line with this philosophy, the Congress passed earlier in the present sessions the revenue act of 1940. This measure will increase our tax revenues by $1,000,000,000 annually, the greatest peacetime increase in our nation's history.

AS THIS is written, additional tax legislation is now pending in the form of excess-profits tax, which will further increase our revenues.

In spite of these added taxes, however, the defense program will necessitate further deficits. We are, however, a virile and determined nation.

If deficits are necessary to the preservation of our national security, if higher taxes must be borne in order to retain our liberty and freedom, and if a greater national debt is the price for the continuation of our cherished ideals, I am convinced the American people will not long delay their decision.

Government in France

Obstacles in Way of Its Return from Vichy to Paris.

By International News Service

PARIS (via Berlin), Sept. 16—No answer can yet be given to the question of when the French government will return to Paris. The Paris press has been saying that the population in occupied France, and particularly the Paris population, wants the government back now. Marshal Petain has indicated that the government wants to return and most Frenchmen agree that from the practical point of view, administration problems would be far easier handled from Paris than from Vichy.

The two main considerations standing in the way of the government's immediate return are the questions of liberty of action under the occupying authorities, and possibly the feeling that the mass of Parisians and others who remained in occupied territory would not welcome the government as at present constituted.

Just when these problems will be solved is uncertain. For one thing, the practical problems are formidable since administrative routine was thrown into chaos by the hasty flight from Paris and a precipitate return might add to the disorder.

Many Services Returning

Each day, however, important services and functionaries are returning to Paris. A long train load of civil servants returned a few days ago. The Court of Cassation (France's supreme court) has resumed its sessions, a week after the date originally set. More government offices and institutions are reopening daily.

Eventually, the government will return to Versailles according to present plans but actually the Palace of Versailles is in no condition to receive it. Pictures published in Paris confirm visitors' reports that a thorough cleaning up is necessary to make the place fit for any government. They reveal windows boarded up, weeds growing in the gardens outside the palace, the Grand Canal dry and other fountains and statuary boxed up and overgrown with weeds. Several weeks at least would be required to put the palace and the park in fit state to receive anyone.

At the moment more urgent problems than the return of the government face France, such as the restoration of communications, food supplies, the unemployment problem, demobilization of the army, the prison camps and the refugees.

Communications Improved

Remarkable progress is being made in improving communications. Good headway has also been made in handling the refugee problem, although the number of refugees in the unoccupied zone is still estimated at from four to six million, the first figure having been mentioned by Marshal Petain, himself. The army is also being rapidly demobilized and it is reported this work will soon be completed.

However, most of the army now apparently is in prison camps and the care of 2,000,000 war prisoners is a problem taxing the administrative capacities of both the Germans and the French. The former have made it clear that there can be no question for the moment of releasing the prisoners and quite possibly that is the more reasonable attitude, since there is little work for them to do. The German authorities further point out that most German prisoners were held by the Allies for a long period after the Armistice.

Former Leaders Attacked

Meanwhile, the Paris press is paying slight attention to the Riom harings into war responsibilites just started, but continues its attacks on former French leaders, particularly former Premiers Edouard Daladier, and Paul Reynaud, former minister of the interior Georges Mandel and, occasionally, former President Albert Lebrun.

It is reported here, but the report has not as yet been confirmed, that the election of a new president by the French parliament—sitting as a constituent assembly—may be near at hand. Ordinarily, this election takes place at Versailles, but whether it will take place there or elsewhere, or at all, are questions for the future to decide.

Just now, the German authorities' attention is concentrated almost exclusively on the war; while the natural organizing ability and talent for adaptation to circumstances of the French is devoted to more essential matters than these political questions.

"No you don't!"

Just For Fun

Movie Moguls Can't Quite Get the Idea That Cash Customers Pay Dough To Be Entertained.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE have another bone to pick with some of the movie critics. A lot of them recently reviewed a picture showing on Broadway as big business by saying it was great entertainment, then wound up by saying it was not a great picture.

After puting it away with their readers as good entertainment, they proceeded to take the thing apart and disclose what they deemed its weaknesses, which included the story, in their opinion.

Damon Runyon

Now what we say is that any picture which is great entertainment is per se a great picture. That is the fundamental principle of picture making—entertainment. It is absolutely all the cash customers of the movies ask of a picture. It is when the moviemakers get away from the idea of entertainment that their pictures bog down. If a picture does not fulfill the movie mission of entertainment, we say it cannot be a great picture.

The judges of entertainment value of a picture are the cash customers in the box office plebiscite. Nor do we consider this a sordidly commercial test.

Theirs is the majority vote, and you have no more right to say that the majority is wrong on pictures than on any other proposition.

THE fact the majority of cash customers often rejects pictures the critics think are artistic triumphs does not, as we have said before, argue that the majority are lacking in artistic discernment or appreciation. Not at all. It simply proves that the majority believe the pictures lacking in that entertainment value which they expect of pictures.

We think it very strange that movie makers, in the face of the enormous success of strictly entertainment pictures, such as "Boom Town," "Gone With the Wind," "Snow White" and others, never seem to understand that expectation of the majority. They will make entertainment pictures awhile, then go back to putting out message pictures and historical and biographical documents in which history is distorted or concealed and the critics brood despondently over the way the pictures get the avoids from the cash customers.

Maybe after a big message picture, movie makers return to entertainment, not so much out of consideration for cash customers as to make up the dough they lost on the message picture and perhaps get enough ahead for another message. The present seems to be one of those recuperative periods. In any event, the picture doing the best business are entertainment pictures, and the cash customers are enjoying themselves.

HOWEVER, so strong is the message complex among movie makers that we notice they are copping sneaks, so to speak, with their message. Even in the entertainment pictures, they are working them in right in the middle of laughs. Us cash customers do not mind this process. In fact, we will encourage it, if it will serve to reduce the number of total message pictures in the future. We can have our entertainment, the movie makers can get in their messages, and everybody will be happy.

We recently read of a poll which showed 32,000,000 persons in the United States of America do not attend movies for one reason and another. We confess we are always a little distrustful of polls, because we have never been polled ourself on any subject, nor have we ever met anybody who has been polled, but assuming that the figure is fairly accurate we imagine the absence of about 1,000,000 would be due to message pictures.

They would be editorial writers, columnists, political speakers and others who are absorbed in giving out messages on their own account every day and who can see only boredom in pictures devoted to the same matter. As for the other 31,000,000 we think maybe they are cash customers who have gotten out of the idea the movies are entertainment.

Nazi Decoration Days

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
By The Associated Press

BERLIN—One year of war has brought forth the greatest crop of decorations ever devised by any German regime.

Whether a German fights on land, sea or in the air, whether he digs dirt directly behind or along the lines, whether he works in a war industry — everywhere he has opportunity to earn a decoration for outstanding service.

When the war started September 1, 1939, no one was surprised that Adolf Hitler signed a decree making the famed Iron Cross once again the central decoration. During this war, however, it is reserved for soldiers actually facing the enemy. Formerly civilians could achieve it.

Previously the Iron Cross had three grades—second and first classes, and the grand cross. Hitler added a higher grade—the knight's cross. Even a private now can earn all four grades.

At the same time, Hitler revived the three grades of the Decoration for Wounded Soldiers—a badge depicting a steel helmet. It is awarded in black metal for sustaining wounds once or twice, in silver for three or four woundings, and in gold for more than four.

When the dangers of modern weapons became apparent, decorations were introduced for participation in a certain number of combat actions. Thus Grand Admiral Erich Raeder established a special decoration for submarine crews. A special "infantry storm attack badge" was introduced by Generalissimo Walter von Brauchitsch for "participation, with weapon in hand, in three storm attacks in the front lines and on three different days." Von Brauchitsch also established the "tank badge" for participation in three tank fights on three separate days.

Field Marshal Hermann Goering established a badge for parachute jumpers who leaped six times.

Hitler also created the "Kriegsverdienstkreuz," the distinguished war service cross available to both soldiers and civilians—with swords for soldiers, without for civilians. First civilian to obtain the "Kriegsverdienstkreuz" was the munitions maker, Krupp von Bohlen, on the occasion of his 70th birthday, Aug. 7, 1940.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

Gen. Benjamin Logan in 1786 led his mounted men against the Mac-O-Chees, one of four Shawnee tribes, living on Mad river in present Logan county.

In the absence of most of the warriors, the village fell easy prey to Logan's Kentuckians, who rounded up about 30 squaws and children prisoners.

About to retire from the scene, arrows were shot at the men, apparently by a lone, concealed marksman. A quick search in the tall grass revealed a tall Indian youth.

General Logan was so impressed with the lad's spirit that he returned the youth to his home, where he was raised and educated by the Logans. The general gave him the name "Captain James Logan," including the military title because the boy so greatly admired army life. The boy became a valuable asset to the American army along the frontier.

MISS STARR AGAIN WINS TENNIS TITLE

Victor Over Mrs. Williams in County Finals.

Miss Ruth Starr won, for the second consecutive year, the Marion County women's tennis singles championship keeping two straight sets, 6-4 and 8-6 from Mrs. William Williams in the finals Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. courts. A trophy was presented Miss Starr by the Y. W. C. A., sponsor of the tournament.

Although Miss Starr won by a close score in the first set, every game was fought to deuce point as Mrs. Williams kept pounding long baseline drives to Miss Starr's feet. The champion met the hard drives of her opponent with unrelenting and accurate returns.

Mrs. Williams started off strong in the second set and worked her way to a 4-2 advantage in games. Miss Starr won her third game with accurate placements and Mrs. Williams copped the next as she continued to plant drives to Miss Starr's baseline.

With the count 5-3 and Mrs. Williams only needing one more game to win the set, Miss Starr rallied and won the next two games to square the match at 5 all. Mrs. Williams pulled her opponent to the net on numerous times and then used her favorite forehand to the opposite baseline to win the following game. Miss Starr evened the match again by annexing the next game and then went on to win the seventh and eighth and the match with a combination of hard services and well hit shots to the court corners.

HULL CHECKS WILLKIE ON CZECH CHARGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Secretary Hull accused Wendell Willkie today of being "grossly ignorant of the history of the last few years" in placing upon President Roosevelt responsibility for the fate of Czecho-Slovakia at Munich.

The Republican presidential nominee charged in a speech in Illinois Saturday that Mr. Roosevelt helped to promote the Munich pact and urged a settlement which "sold Czecho-Slovakia down the river."

In a statement, the administration's chief official on foreign affairs declared "the assertions which Mr. Willkie made are untrue and make it evident he is grossly ignorant of the history of the last few years."

Referring to Willkie's assertion that President Roosevelt "telephoned Hitler and Mussolini and urged them to sell Czecho-Slovakia down the river at Munich," Hull said:

"The President has never communicated by telephone with either Premier Mussolini or Chancellor Hitler.

"All the President has ever urged upon the nations involved has been in accordance with the provisions of the Kellogg pact which provides for pacific solution of controversies as they arise.

"In September, 1938, he specifically urged in messages made public immediately that a peaceful solution be found through negotiations in which all the nations involved would be represented, including Czecho-Slovakia and that such negotiations be undertaken by all nations on an equal basis with none of them under the threat of aggression."

After Willkie had made the charge at Joliet, Ill., Saturday, his press secretary, Lem Jones, said that he had "misspoken" and what he intended to say was that President Roosevelt had urged a settlement at Munich and that the pact there "agreed to sell Czecho-Slovakia down the river."

CHAVEZ TAKES LEAD IN N. MEX. PRIMARY

By The Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 16—United States Sen. Dennis Chavez, trailing in Saturday's bitterly-waged Democratic primary senatorial race, forged into the lead over Rep. John J. Dempsey today on the basis of late reporting returns from northern Spanish-American counties.

Amended unofficial returns from all but about 100 of the 914 voting precincts overcame the slender lead held by Dempsey since counting started Saturday night, and put the senator out in front by a handful of ballots from a total Democratic count of about 85,000 votes to this point.

Greater British Resistance Marks War Developments

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The outstanding development of the week-end has been the increased strength of the British resistance and counter-attack to the Nazi air assault against London as Hitler has driven his pack furiously for a kill.

The English claimed a record bag of 185 planes for yesterday (a figure disputed by Berlin) as against 25 royal air force machines lost. Again this morning the British were reported to have started the day aggressively by turning back another heavy Nazi attack.

Ominous but unexplained was the bombardment of the important English east coast port of Dover this morning by Nazi long range naval guns from the French shore. This naturally gave rise to speculation as to whether it was the red flare signalling the imminence of a German attempt at invasion. Only one thing was wholly apparent, however—that Hitler was extending himself in his effort to make the British defense a crack big enough to permit of his grand coup.

Lightning Stroke Likely

If and when Hitler makes his attack it will be a lightning stroke, and as much in the nature of a surprise as he is able to make it.

It is interesting to note the German contention that the British have been weakening their defenses in other parts of England in order to strengthen the defense of London. This statement accompanied the admission that the Nazi airforce was encountering fierce and heroic resistance.

It is possible that the British have indeed diverted defensive forces to the protection of the capital. It is equally possible that the German claim is father to the wish. To my mind it is sure that part of the Nazi strategy will be to try to entice the Britons into weakening their defenses at some spot or spots against which the invaders will strike a lightning blow. This might account in part for the manner in which Hitler has concentrated his attack on London.

Farouk Appeals to Moslems

While all this was going on, there was another highly significant development in connection with Mussolini's thrust into Egypt over the inhospitable wastes of the Libyan desert. This was the appeal made by youthful King Farouk of Egypt to Moslems throughout the world to pray that Egypt may have peace.

In that appeal may lie a terrible menace to the Fascist chieftain. Should he cause a Mohammedan holy war against Italy he would have unleased a whirlwind. That is an important point to watch.

One need only add that British influence over the millions of Arabs in the near east is vast, and that Egypt not only is England's ally, but virtually a protectorate. Moslem Turkey, with its powerful military force, also is allied to the British.

It seems to me that in the long run we get back to the idea that pretty much everything hinges on the German drive against England itself.

QUESTIONNAIRES SENT TO C. OF C. MEMBERS

Will Provide Basis for "Program of Work."

Questionnaires have been distributed to members of the Chamber of Commerce, the members' answers furnishing the Chamber's "program of work" committee with a groundwork for outlining next year's activities, it was announced today.

The committee's outline will be submitted to the board of directors for approval.

The program of work committee, appointed by Harold J. Grigsby, president, follows:

H. R. Waddell, chairman, Dr. O. M. Young, Morgan E. Burke, Jack Irwin, Ed C. Watters, E. K. Smith, R. T. Lewis, Judge Oscar Gast, J. B. Bray, Wilson B. Tway and Howard Swink.

900 AT CLOSING OF BIBLE CONFERENCE

About 900 persons were at Chautauqua pavilion Sunday night for the closing service of the Bible conference conducted by the Young People's Fellowship club. Dr. Arthur J. Brown of Vancouver, B. C., lecturer for the conference, gave three addresses Sunday, two of which dealt with prophecy. At night he gave his reasons for believing that the personal return of Christ is near.

He said in part: "This conference has been a fruitful one from every standpoint. . . . I shall look forward to a return visit next year if we are still on earth. A world on the brink of imminent destruction refuses to listen to this most important message and there are many professing Christians who ridicule the idea that Christ will return in bodily form to rule this earth. The Bible states that this attitude will mark the end of the age and so there is no reason to think that every one will accept this great truth. We are in the midst of tremendous and world-shaking events which can only be understood when we know the Scriptural explanation."

$172 RECEIVED IN FORGET-ME-NOT SALE

Veterans Ask That Flowers Be Worn Week of Sept. 26.

The sum of $172.30 was realized from the sale of forget-me-nots on Saturday by Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and auxiliary, it was announced today by Commander William Kehrwecker.

All of the flowers ordered for the sale were sold. Auxiliary members acted as captains and joined volunteer workers in selling on the street in the uptown district.

W. H. Willis, chairman of the sale, today asked the purchasers of the forget-me-nots to wear them during Argonne week, which starts Sept. 26, commemorating the twenty-second anniversary of the beginning of the American engagement which ended in the signing of the Armistice on Nov. 11, 1918. He expressed the hope that Marion ministers "would take this particular time to speak on peace with preparedness, mindful of the thousands who were sacrificed in this and other battles through lack of adequate training in the mechanics of defense."

Following an annual custom, the auxiliary will entertain the volunteer workers at a "thank you" party at the October meeting at the Armory. Volunteers who turned in high sales and who will be honored at the party are George Lupica, Mary Virginia Bain, Lena Lupica, Donald Bowen, Fay Kuhn Jr., Margaret Saunders, Lucille Bowen, Clara Edlington, Robert Bowen, Margaret Patten, Varian Harraman and Allen Marquis.

Disabled veterans of the county are invited to attend a meeting of the chapter Tuesday night at the Armory, at which time the year's program will be outlined.

DRAFT TO CALL 36,000 NEGROES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—The White House announced today that 36,000 of the first 400,000 men drafted for military service would be Negroes.

A statement issued by Stephen Early, press secretary, said also that the civil aeronautics authority, in cooperation with the army, was making "a start in the development of colored personnel for the aviation service."

The statement added the new Negro regiments would be organized for the army and that existing organizations would be expanded to full strength.

BUYING HELPS STOCKS TODAY

Trading, However, Is Highly Selective with Steels and Rails Favorites.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—A little buying crept into the stock market today, but it was notably selective. Steels and rails were among early favorites.

Wall Street seemed moderately cheered by British claims of fighting off Nazi air assaults over the week-end, but many traders inclined to keep commitments at a minimum pending further developments in the battle of England. Home business news remained a hopeful market factor.

In the bond department carriers were in fair demand. Securities at London held to a steady course. Commodities did better after a hesitant start.

Among stocks attracting support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Westinghouse and Loft.
